Foreword

Throughout history windows have served a twofold purpose, to provide beauty and light. One can see this purpose fulfilled by the windows of the irreplaceable Gothic cathedrals of Europe built during the Middle Ages. These famous stained glass windows are beautifully symbolic of religious truths. Even today, our modern architects plan structures which have enhancing and purposeful windows.

So too the windows of Calvert fulfill their twofold purpose. Colorful and practical windows throughout the school enhance the beauty of our newly dedicated building. Moreover, the very atmosphere they create by the amount of light they admit is conducive to study.

However, the windows of our school do more than merely provide beauty and light. One can see in them a symbol of the supernatural light which enlightens the souls and minds of Calvert students.

The windows of Calvert may also be said to serve as glass mirrors which reflect the activities of its beloved students. These very windows reflect the same pictures which are revealed in the following pages of the Calvertana.

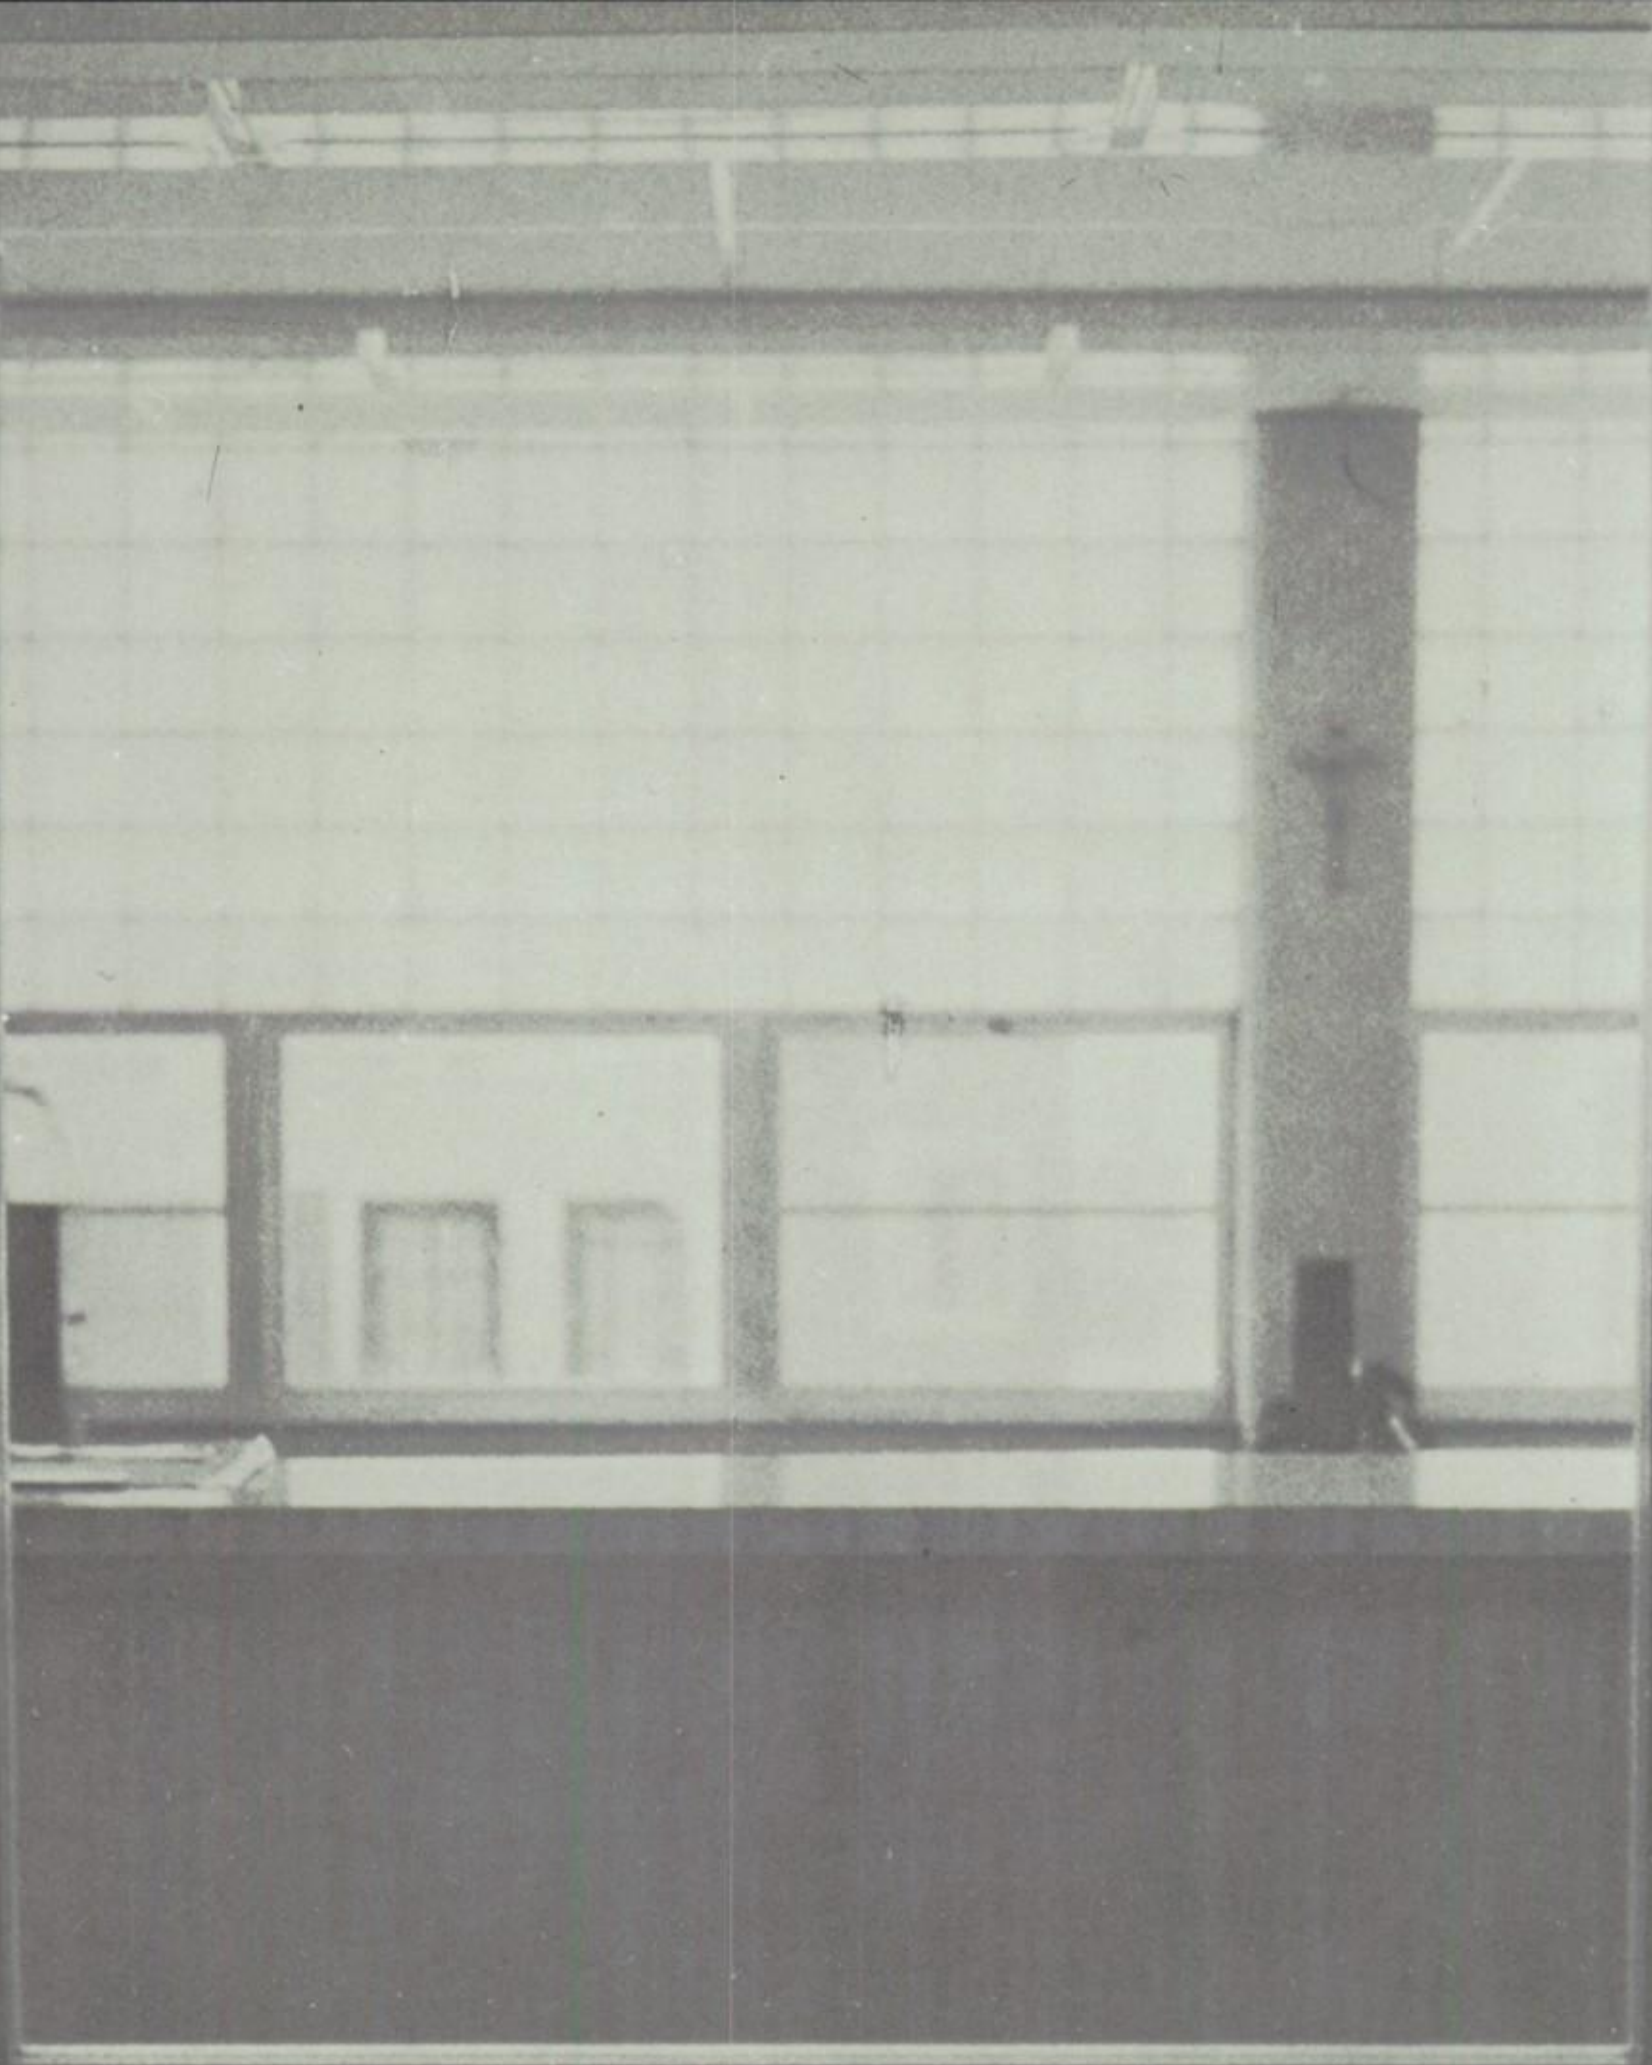

Dedication

We, the class of 1962, wish to dedicate this thirty-sixth edition of the Calvertana to Mrs. Harriet McClellan whose varied and numerous services to Calvert and its students over the past nine years have won for her the gratitude and esteem of the faculty and the students.

Windows of culture sought by Juniors

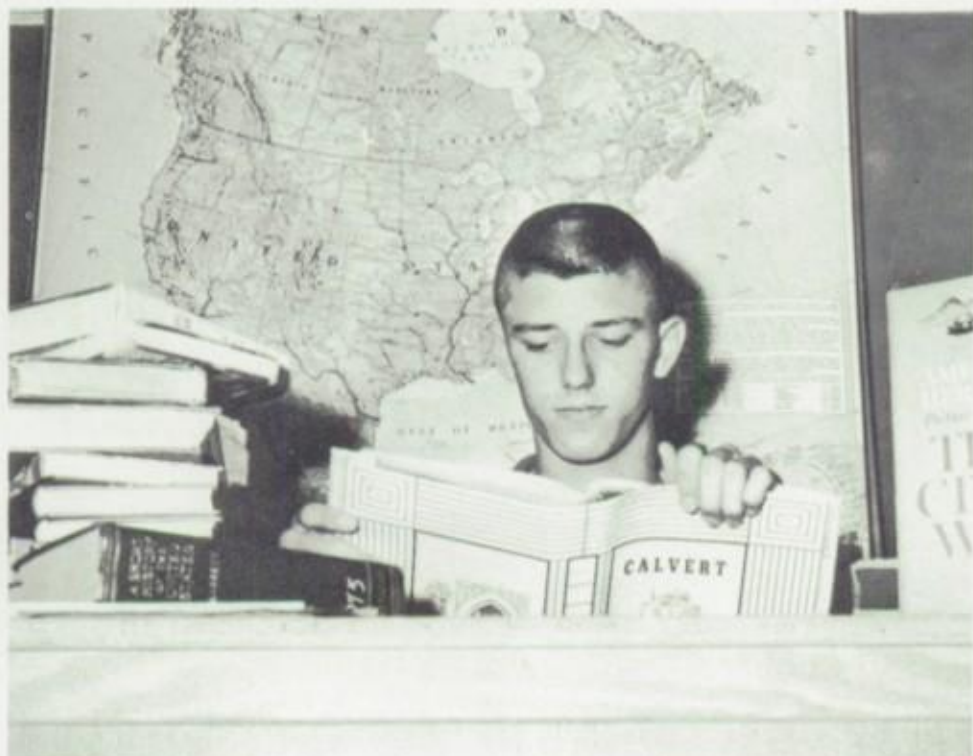

These mechanical drawing students, Robert J. Shultz, Howard Hohman, Ronald Raitz, Richard Reuhle, and Jerald Schock, apply the principles they have strived to absorb in their daily studies.

David Nevius, Judy Puffenburger, and Patricia Frisch, advanced algebra students, demonstrate the graphing of equations, one of the many principles taken in this mathematics class.

Richard Lee uses reference books to enable him to understand fully the American Civil War, which is extensively studied in the American history class.

Opportunities afford growth

English students Edward Carp, James Phillips, Charles Paine, Martha Ball, and Edward Straub participate in a chamber theater presentation of "Doctor Heidegger's Experiment."

The first year Spanish class devotes itself to the study of the Spanish speaking countries as well as the language itself. Here is a group of Spanish students completing work on maps of Spain which they have made.

Ralph Brown and James Gruss examine a copy of the Bible under the watchful eyes of Father Ringholz. A great part of the year is spent studying the life of Christ based on the New Testament.

Barbara Kummerer, Barbara Rohrbach, Bonita Steinmetz, and Margaret Bogner study tax forms in connection with their general business course.

Students, using a newly acquired tape recorder, endeavor to learn the Latin language.

As members of the Teenage Book Club, English students Donna Frey, Ruth Klopp, Kathleen Newman, John Ewing, and Larry Etzkorn share in many cultural benefits.

Sophomores seek clear windows of learning

In useful mathematics David Distel, John Fiegelist, Daniel Miller, Donald Hoover, Frederick Shelt, and Michael Taylor develop and cultivate mathematical skills which will aid them throughout life.

One of the new courses added to the curriculum is world history. Harry Caito and John Saad point out the different parts of the world in relation to ages of civilization.

Biology students make use of Calvert's well-equipped biology lab. Here David Distel locates the parts of a dissected insect. Besides animal life, the course covers the fundamentals of plant and human life.

Windows of education

Calvert's shop course affords its students a fundamental knowledge of practical construction skill. Here Stephen Leahy and William Hohman gather equipment to be used in wood construction.

Father Say provides his religion class with religious training made complete by the very atmosphere of the school. During the sophomore year the practice of virtues is emphasized.

World history students Paul Schreiner, Elaine Hoover, Diane Seitz, and Joseph Stover locate points of international interest on a map of current events.

Shown entering the classroom, these students realize that Calvert's English program aspires to produce citizens with diversified interests and informed minds.

open wide to Freshmen

In celebration of Latin week the Latin students are assigned the project of making posters. John Breidenbach, Kathleen Kenner, and Frank Perna display their posters on the bulletin board.

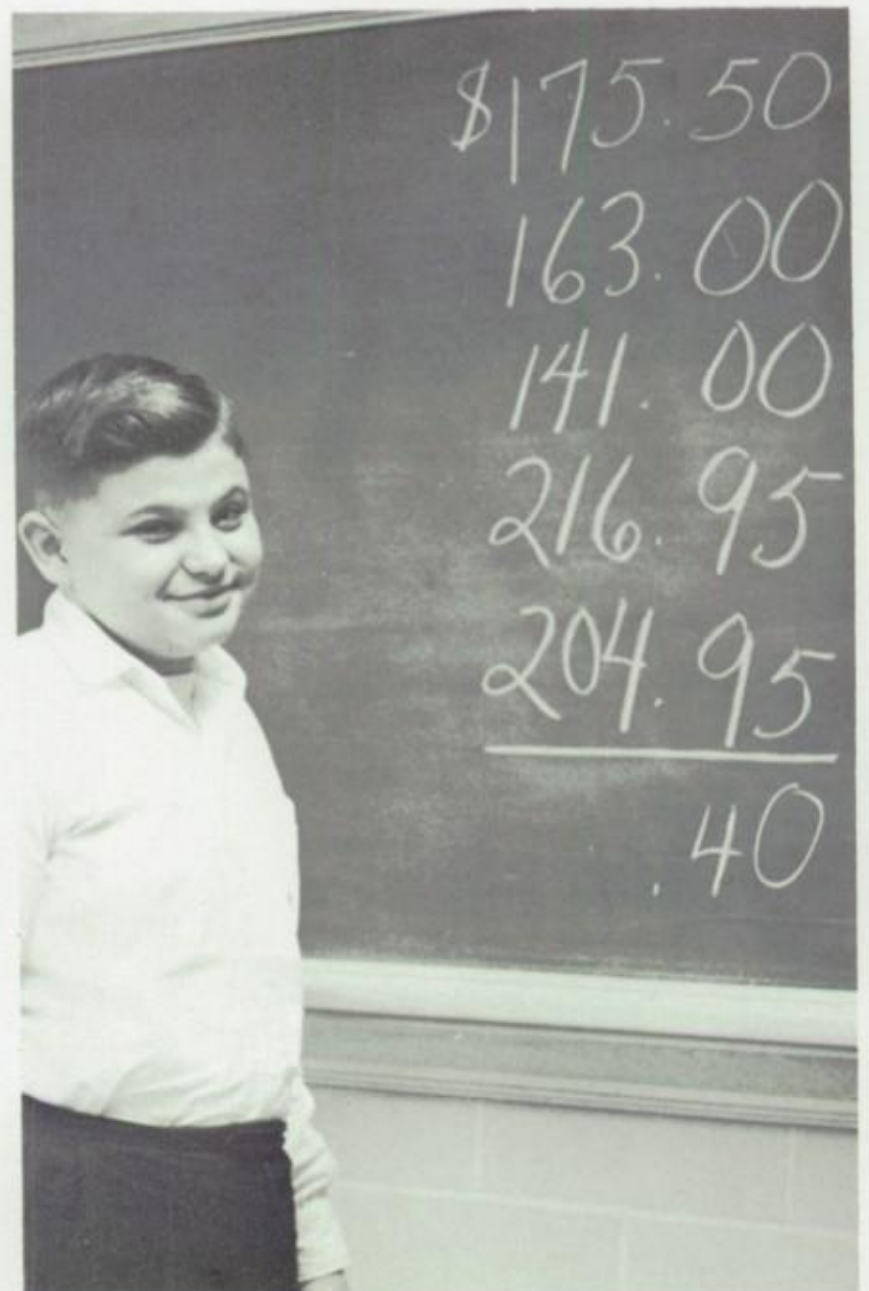

Kathleen Alspach, Ronald Houck, and Linda Weithman are busy at work on posters for the Ohio School Safety Poster Contest. In this project they are applying the principles of design they have learned this year.

"Am I seeing double?" No. Martha Kummerer is demonstrating how a reducing glass works for the general science class which is learning the principle of the lens.

Joseph Sommers looks discouraged as he attempts to solve the perplexing problem on the board in business arithmetic class.

Frosh prepare for day when future is theirs

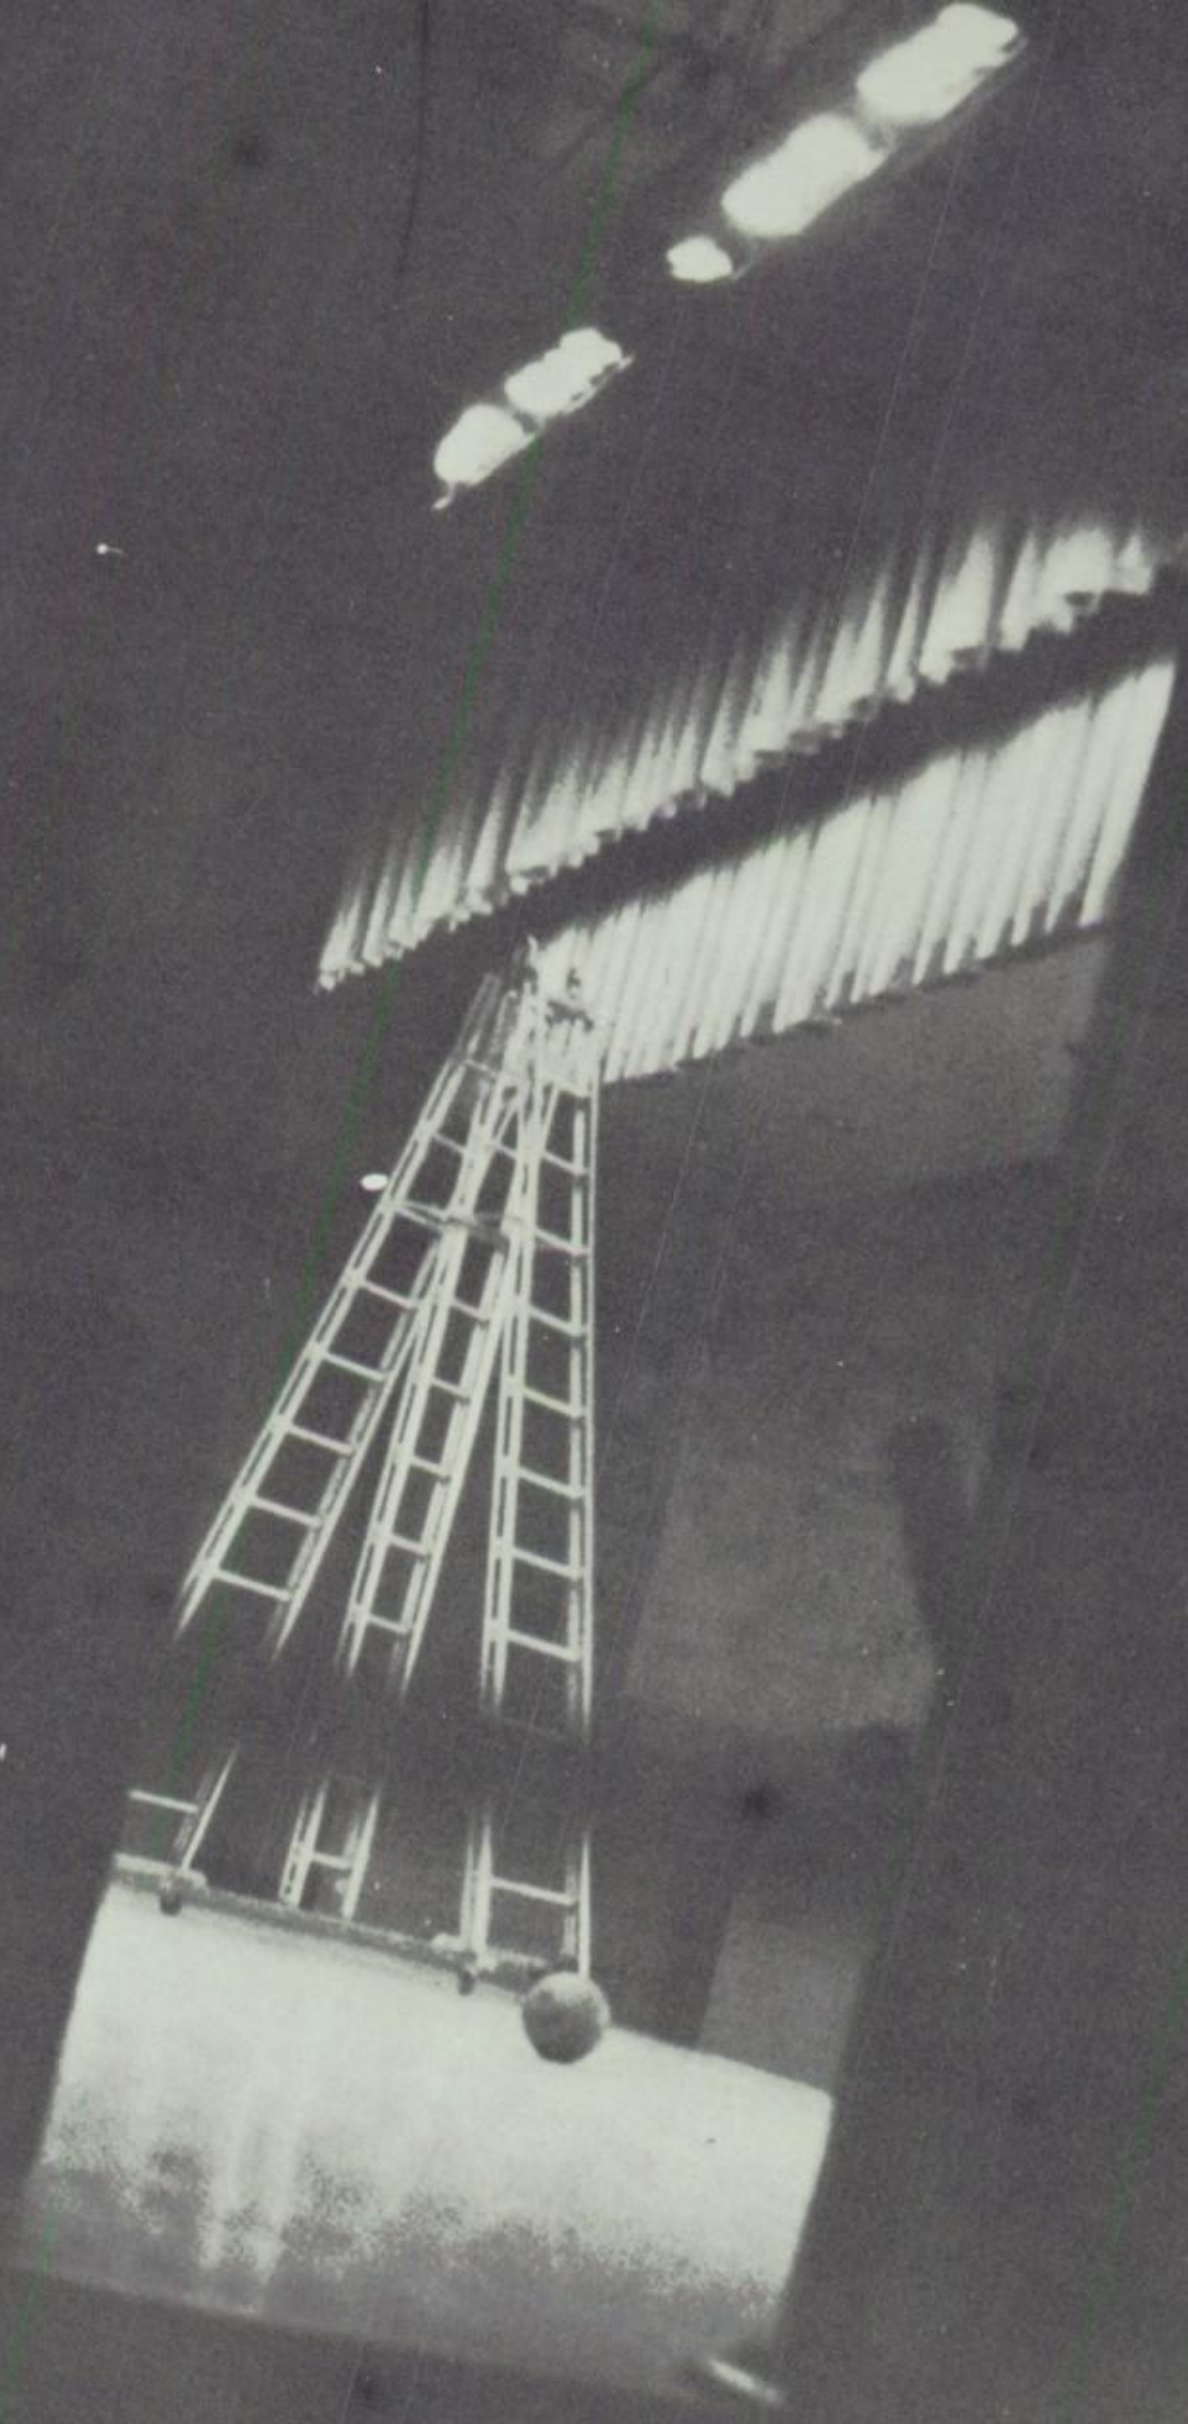

Along with the new addition to Calvert has come a new library with new chairs, tables, and book shelves. Several students are seen here making use of their new asset.

Better understanding of algebra formulas will be achieved through the practical explanation that Barbara Ruffing and Albert Boes are demonstrating with the balance.

During their guidance class Kathleen Welch and Rebecca Thiery look at a picture of Cecil Calvert, for whom the school is named, while Jolene Klein, and Mary Lonsway study his life. The girls have learned interesting historical and modern facts about Calvert High School from the new guidance course.

Activities

The Calvert News

The monthly process of putting out the school paper begins as editor-in-chief Alexander Garlo ponders ideas for the forthcoming issue.

Before making writers' assignments the page editors, Margaret Kuebler, Maryanne Kummerer, Eugene Saad, and Michael Wurm, plan layouts for their pages.

News writers Virginia Hohman, Sue Fleck, Rita Rumschlag, Ruth Robenalt, Mary Ann Fiegelist, and Mary Pat Lautermilch look on the bulletin board for their assignment for the month.

News writers Ann Frankhart interviews the Friars from Carey for material for her story.

Eugene Saad corners his sports writers, William Baltzell, Robert Albus, Alvern Boes, Paul Leahy, and Joseph Hart, for a brief meeting.

Story

Jean Walk and Eileen Ring, alumni writers, look through the local and diocesan papers for news.

Feature writers and columnists, Kathleen Leahy, Marilyn Distel, Carolyn Myers, Barbara Muller, and Thomas Weber, meet to pool ideas.

John Riedy, photographer, and Jerome Grillot, feature writer, help James Blust (right) interview freshmen for an opinion poll.

Typists at work are Barbara Kimmet, Dolores Renninger, Barbara Gase, Carl Tiell, Judy Sykes, Kay Thom, Karen Kuntz, Nancy Gilliland, Diane Kummerer, and Michael Zahn.

The end. The paper arrives for distribution at dismissal time.

Assistant editor Patricia Russell tries a possible layout while staff members Ruth Robenalt, Barbara Muller, Carol Daniel, Rita Rumschlag, and Barbara Kimmet give suggestions.

Co-editors Pauline Derr and John Reineck find humor in some of the informal shots.

"What's next?" is the question posed by photographer Alexander Garlo.

Staff members reading copy are Karen Bleclie, Ann Frankhart, Carolyn Myers, Diane Kummerer, Eileen Ring, and William Baltzell.

Just in time to meet the deadline, assistant editor Theodore Rombach makes a trip to the post office.

Business managers Jerome Grillot, Sandra Gordon, Ruth Escher, and Thomas Weber prepare The Calvert News for mailing.

"Oh, Mary, We Crown Thee . . ."

This year the honor of crowning the Blessed Virgin at the annual May procession was voted by the Juniors and Seniors to Carol Daniel and John Reineck. Patricia Russell and Alexander Garlo were banner bearers, having received the next highest number of votes. To be eligible a senior must be on the Religion Honor Roll, having a B+ average in religion and conduct for four years.

'Tish' Comes to

Tish, Barbara Gase, has her first encounter with the pompous, domineering Luther Hopkins, John Riedy, and his pretty daughter Callie, Kathleen Leahy.

Aggie, Marilyn Distel, and Lizzie, Sandra Gordon, two meddling middle-aged spinsters, futilely attempt to make conversation with Charita, Phyllis Hayward.

In his search for the thief, Sheriff Lem Pike, Jerome Grillot, startles young Callie, Kathleen Leahy, while Ellen Leighton, Pauline Derr, and Charlie Sands, Thomas Weber, await an explanation.

Calvert

Sheriff Lem Pike, Jerome Grillot, and his two deputies, John Reineck and Paul Leahy, are ever alert and on guard against any prospective crime.

Tish, Barbara Gase, relates her exploits, while Bettina Trent, Kay Ann Thom, Wesley Andrews, William Baltzell, Lizzie, Sandra Gordon, and Aggie, Marilyn Distel, listen attentively.

Denby Grimes, a movie producer played by James Blust, and Dorice Gaylord, a beautiful movie actress played by Karen Bleclie, meet in the lobby of Ellen Leighton's hotel.

Clubs provide training

Officers Dolores Renninger, Mary Ann Fiegelist, and George Pahl plan interesting and enjoyable meetings for the Calvertangelos, the newly organized art club.

Seen admiring the APSL trophy, won last year, are this year's Latin Club officers Mary Kay Boes, Sandra Gordon, Eileen Ring, and Edward Margraf.

ninger, Sandra Gordon, Eileen Ring; standing are Michael Wurm, Maryanne Kummerer, Rita Rumschlag, and Eugene Saad.

Future Teachers of America officers Patricia Frisch, Mary Lou Wilhelm, Patricia Russell, and Mary Warnement make arrangements to hear a guest speaker at their monthly meeting.

Chemical reagent trays, equipment for the new semimicro lab method, are examined by Chemistry Club officers Richard Banks, Jean Spencer, David Williams, and Thomas Weber.

Examining costumes are David Williams, Patricia Russell, and Jean Betz, officers of the Genesian Club.

Admiring miniature flags of Spanish-speaking countries are Spanish Club officers Stephen Omlor, Michael Kear, Jane Winterhalter, Theodore Rombach, and Michael Wise.

Campaign Champions

Calvert's top Catholic Chronicle crusaders were Patricia Herig, Kevin Leahy, and Kathleen Lutz.

The annual magazine drive was boosted over the top this year by the outstanding work of Daniel Lautermilch, Connie Baker, and Richard Theis.

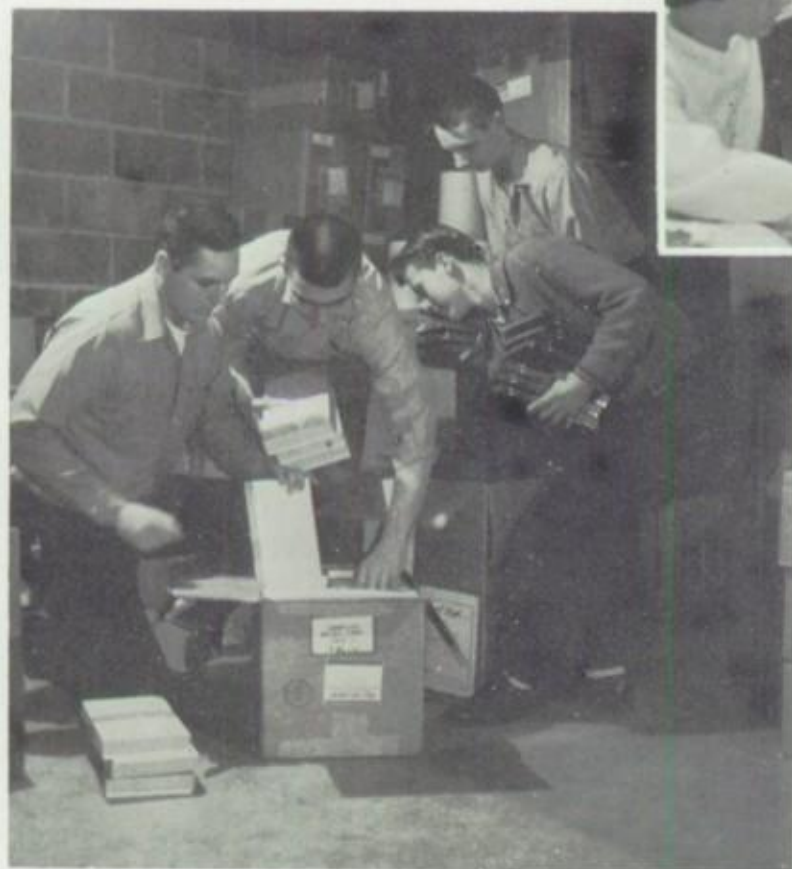

These seniors girls led the Calvertana-Calvert News patron drive to another successful year. They are Carolyn Myers, Eileen Ring, Sue Fleck, Kathleen Leahy, Patricia Russell, and Margaret Kuebler.

Activities of Class of '63

The annual prom, sponsored by the junior class, is made possible largely through the success of the Christmas card sale. James Phillips, Lawrence Stanton, Thomas Romig, and Robert Sheeley prepare to deliver their cards.

Signing up for the various prom committees are Michael Baltzell, Daniel Lautermilch, Roger Holmer, and Robert Deis.

Father Gans, the juniors' new class moderator, talks with Jean Betz, Susan Dendinger, Joanne Ley, Mary Warnement, and Margaret Gase.

Alumni Report

The traditional activities of the Calvert Alumni Association have been successful again this past year. These activities, as well as other outside projects, were under the direction of Mr. Lawrence Miletti, president, Mr. Joseph Granata, vice-president, Mrs. Charles Rohrbach, secretary, and Miss Rose Ann Phillips, treasurer.

As in the past, a High Mass was offered in the Ursuline Chapel for all living and deceased alumni members and their families. Following the death of a member, the rosary was said and a High Mass was offered for the soul of the deceased.

The Alumni Reunion, held at Calvert High School on Sunday, June 3, 1961, was well attended, as was the annual Alumni Dance held at Meadowbrook Ballroom on August 26. This year the class of 1937 celebrated its silver anniversary in conjunction with the annual reunion. The Pre-Lenten Dance, which was held at the Knights of Columbus Home on February 24, was also a success.

This year, besides making financial contributions to the Calvert library, the association offered to contribute toward the purchase of school desks, as well as a cabinet and supplies for the health room.

An outstanding phase of this year's program was Career Day, at which ten speakers from diversified careers gave informative talks to the Calvert students and their parents. Two other achievements carried on by the association included a plaque program honoring all of Calvert's principals, and the purchase of a new frame for the picture of Lord Calvert, drawn by Vincent Omlor, which hangs in the school study hall.

Mr. Joseph Granata, vice-president, Mr. Lawrence Miletti, president, Mrs. Charles Rohrbach, secretary, and Miss Rose Ann Phillips, treasurer.
